

Internship Funding from Dimensions Funding Amounts and Disbursement

Funding Amounts

Dimensions can provide funding for expenses incurred for internships and independent study projects related to the healthcare fields. These funds are available by application on a competitive basis. The Dimensions Operations Committee reviews applications and makes funding decisions. Expense allowances are based upon the following guidelines*:

Sites within daily driving distance (approximately 60 miles) of Cornell College or your hometown: Mileage will be calculated as round trip from campus, or your home, to the site as determined by map distance and multiplied by number of trips verified by internship site. Funding is provided at the rate of $0.25/mile, up to a maximum of $200. (The mileage rate is subject to change, based upon IRS ruling and Cornell College policies.)

Sites in the Midwest, contiguous states: $Up to 500/block

Sites on the East and West Coasts and the Southern US: Up to $1000/block

International Sites: Up to $1,500/block

*The maximum funding amounts may be increased for placements for which there is reasonable assurance that the student's work will culminate with a journal publication. These requests must include an additional letter of recommendation from the student's Principal Investigator which addresses the likelihood of publication.

Fund Disbursement

Students who receive Dimensions funding are required to provide the Associate Director of Dimensions with a summary report (including photos taken at the site) reflecting upon the internship/independent project.
